ABOUT ME

I am Akif Emre Şenol and I am an inexperienced Frontend developer with no work experience yet. I have the goal of creating user-friendly and impressive websites using the knowledge and skills I have acquired in the field of web development. Thanks to my interest in web technologies, I have the basic skills needed to create modern and user-oriented web experiences.

During my software engineering education, I studied in-depth on core web technologies such as HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. I've also had experience with popular frontend frameworks like ReactJS. In these projects, I developed my core skills such as creating user interfaces, data management, API integration and responsive design. I am a team player and I like to communicate and collaborate actively in project processes. At the same time, I think that I have the ability to learn quickly and I attach importance to constantly improving myself to adapt to new technologies and trends. Also, I have the ability to solve complex problems thanks to my problem-solving skills and analytical thinking.

I want to share my creative ideas and energy to make your company better by working with you.

In the hope that you will take this opportunity, you can find my resume attached. I look forward to talking more about you and sharing more information about my application.

Kind regards.
